Time Was:

On occasion, in your busy adult days, you will slip into the past and recall carefree times feeding the ducks beside the Aberiona. You'll hear sounds of scampering feet and sounds of "I've got my gools." You'll remember hot summer days and running helter skelter after the tinkling bell of the ice cream truck with a quarter clutched tightly in your hot sticky hand. You'll recall the midnight giggles, ghost stories and munchies of your best friend's slumber party. You'll remember those early soccer practices when pounding feet raced pell-mell after the ball. You'll remember taking a round about way to "bump" into a certain someone in the hall. You'll think of the anticipation involved in your first dance and your first date; but most of all, you'll remember how much you grew in every way in those early days.

The addition of a Girls' Soccer Team reflects the progress of equal rights. Carol Donahoe helps to take the team to the quarter finals.

An enchanted youngster brings bread to the best fed ducks on the Aberjona.

The Sachem spirit is immortalized forever on our building.

The Aberjona provides a peaceful setting for a leisurely conversation between Lynn Foden and Katie Mawn.

Flowing through time

'78 graduates, Margaret Scully and Celina Roussopoulos come back to share a moment's laughter with Rick Norris, Ted Harris, and Don DiRocco.

Pondering a math problem is Greg Adamian.

Our beautiful churches provide special places for inner reflection.

Open campus allows time for Linda Doran, Helen Earle, and Paula Giarrizzo study and make plans together.

Time Is:

1979 at WHS means waking at 6:30 and groggily contemplating the day. It means trying to make it from gym, to your locker, to chemistry in under four minutes. It means watching the seconds tick by, waiting for that 2:23 bell. It means laughter and the companionship of friends and the cheers which show Sachem spirit when a goal is scored. It means the thrill of a special invitation or the pride engendered by an honor or award. It means weekends cruisin', banging u'ies, crashing parties, or just relaxing at home to the tunes of your favorite album. But most of all, it means that people are making time flow in a special way for you.

We value our faculty who have influenced our development both academically and personally. They have helped us to learn not only about our world but about ourselves. They have spent countless hours as our advisors and coaches. They have helped with our ups and downs both in and out of the classroom.

Some of our teachers have been at Winchester High for many years and have made countless contributions to student life. Others who are more recent members of the faculty, have brought fresh new perspectives to the school and have introduced many new ideas and teaching methods.

Exciting programs like the tutorials and Clip have kept students who might have dropped out coming back to school so that they will find their future better than they might have without the dedicated teachers who have made time flow in a more meaningful way for them. In the same way, other teachers have helped academically gifted students to reach out and accept the challenges offered by demanding advanced placement courses.

Mr. Conway has brought a fresh spirit to teaching in Winchester. His bright, relaxed attitude has drawn the student body to him. He taught at McCall Junior High for one year and at the High School for one year. He is now at Lynch Junior High. Because of his varied teaching placements, he has touched a majority of the lives of Winchester High School students. He has done this uniquely.

For your empathy with us, for your teaching ability and for the fine human characteristics you exhibit, We, dedicate 1979's Aberjona to you, Richard Conway.

Vincent Larocco Principal

Thomas Budrewicz Asst. Principal

Evander French Asst. Principal

WINCHESTER HIGH SCHOOL WINCHESTER, MASSACHUSETTS

To The Class of 1979:

As you leave high school there are those who will say that there are no challenges for today's young people or that the challenges presented are so complex that you cannot effectively deal with them. I do not believe either statement to be true, nor do I believe that the struggles of mankind have changed dramatically in the course of man's history.

The challenges are there for those of you who wish to reach out and accept them and, while the world appears to be more complex, those complexities are only the result of our more nearly understanding the issues that have always existed. Humanity is better off today than it was yesterday; it will be better off tomorrow.

Where is your star? Who or what is your wizard? Do you dare to dream? Do you believe?

Sincerely,

Vincent & Lauceo

She brightens our days

An amusing moment in German class.

Winchester High is fortunate to have on its teaching staff a most versatile person, Ms. Susan Austin. Ms. Austin came to WHS at the beginning of the 77-78 school year to teach both German and English. However, she soon found herself deeply involved in many school activities. She has grown in popularity among both students and teachers.

Ms. Austin is a dynamic person who finds ways to turn the dullest event into an enjoyable experience. If one walks into her German classes, this is evident immediately. She can have even the quietest students up on their toes singing, "Kopf und Schulter, Knee and Fuss." Every Wednesday, she can be found in the English open area until 5:00 supervising the production of the yearbook. Often, she stays at school until 9:00 to attend Wednesday night German Club functions. Ms. Austin has also been seen in bright orange tights as a member of the teachers' team at the WHS Olympics.

She has been here only two years, but already her accomplishments can be seen and appreciated by all. Thanks to her efforts, a group of about 23 students will be spending a month in Germany on an exchange program. Winchester High is very lucky to have such an interesting teacher on the faculty.

Community Careers

One of the most successful programs at Winchester High School is Max - Ed. This course, directed by Mrs. Boettcher, is designed to give students the opportunity to discover their talents and skills through first hand experience. It includes just about every profession, the more popular ones being hospital work, office work, and early childhood work. Since many seniors panic at the thought of a career, Max - Ed has been extremely beneficial by limiting their choices and guiding them down the right path. Though it is not a new course, its effectiveness is undeniable; a definite plus to our curriculum.

A Welcome Addition

A new addition to the special needs department is Mrs. Phyllis Nannis. Her name might sound familiar since in past years she has worked in the guidance department as a counselor. Though she holds a different position this year her work really hasn't changed; however it is much more involved than it has been previously. Mrs. Nannis has always been interested in special students, so when the position was open in special needs, she applied. Though it has been a severe loss for many individual students, her present job has given Winchester High an added plus.

An adventure to Remember

One of most talked about events at Winchester High has been the addition of a new physical education course, Project Adventure. As the name implies, one has to be very adventurous to engage in the stunts that are involved in this course. Students participate in such projects as climbing to the top of the school on a rope ladder to reach a small plank of wood upon which they jump off. Though it sounds dangerous, it's really not. All the teachers are fully qualified and know what they are doing. If there is one thing that the senior class of 1979 will remember, it is Project Adventure, for not only is it fun, it teaches one to trust others and himself.

Mrs. Rufo prepares a student for a belay.

Grit and daring are requirements for Project Adventure.

"Let them eat cake ... "

Lunch time is a time for relaxation and fun at WHS. The cafeteria has room for those who bring their lunch as well as those courageous souls who opt to buy. Standing in line is no problem, because for some reason, there is always plenty for everyone.

Students find time to rap with friends and catch up on the latest gossip. They also find time to finish homework and prepare for tests.

The cafeteria staff tries very hard to produce a quality lunch for the students. Fresh meat and vegetables are used in everything. Baked goods are prepared every day in the kitchen. A varied selection is always available and the price is right.

Two of the most popular lunches served at WHS are the pizza and the hamburgers. Despite constant complaints about the greasy "burgers," the students are always willing to buy. Most of them do not know that the hamburgers seem greasy because, like everything that comes out of the kitchen, they must be baked rather than fried or broiled. Members of the staff are always pleasant and contribute much to making the lunch break a pleasant occasion for the students.

After 540 days of high school the calendar pages flipped by and we finally became full-fledged Seniors. We had been through three years of high school; we knew it all, yet something was different. Suddenly we were no longer the aspirers, we were the achievers. Everything we did was being watched and copied. We set new trends. Although there were cliques, we seemed to come closer to leaving these security blankets behind than had previous classes. We had a chance to laugh, learn, and to enjoy each other. After so many years of practice, we became adept at starting term papers at 10:00 Sunday night and pulling all-nighters.

Of course, there were pressures concerning college and the paths our lives were to take, but ever-present in our minds was the fact that this was our last year at W.H.S. and we wanted to make it the best. Some Seniors accomplished this by throwing themselves into team sports, Curtain & Cue, or other activities, while others turned to good old-fashioned partying. Whichever way, the theme was the same; to make 78-79 the best year ever!

A Talented GBYSO Trio

Jim Wells, Sherri Daugherty, and Bruce Hunter, our three GBYSO musicians.

The Greater Boston Youth Symphony Orchestra ranks among the finest youth orchestras in the country. This high school group has toured Europe and Israel, and has played with the Boston Symphony Orchestra.

Three talented seniors hold prominent positions in GBYSO. Sherri Daugherty plays principal cello, Jim Wells principal viola, and Bruce Hunter first violin. They rehearse every Sunday from 1:30-5:00, a demanding time commitment; however, the dedicated musicians agree that their outstanding GBYSO experience is well worth the effort involved. The class of '79 is proud of its accomplished members.

Seniors battle college applicationitis!

"College applications" — by December of the senior year these two innocent words become the most dreaded in the English language. They bring an expression of sheer panic onto the most stoic of faces, or turn the most peaceful of conversations into a heated comparison of essay topics.

Many seniors will forver remember spending hours and weekends in front of a blank sheet of paper trying desperately to come up with an original response to the essay topic, "Write a personal statement which you feel describes yourself."

Nor is a blank application the first step of the long process. There are "basic" decisions, such as large or small; co-ed or single-sex, urban or rural — difficult decisions to make from the guidance office of WHS. Then there are the visits: for each school wild enthusiasm aroused, then lost, because your host for the visit (your aunt's third cousin once removed) was unpleasant.

Next year we will undoubtedly look back and say, "Wasn't all that worrying ridiculous?" Meanwhile, the Class of '80 will be frowning over the guidance office computer . . .

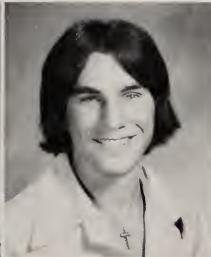

A myriad of decisions frustrates Carolyn Barger at the college viewer.

An Exciting Summer Experience in Switzerland

During the summer of '78, Lisa Thyson participated in the Experiment in International Living in Switzerland. She lived for three weeks with a French-speaking family near Lake Geneva, then spent a fourth week touring northern Switzerland.

Lisa's impressions of the country included impeccable cleanliness, high prices, and rapid French. She found that after three weeks she was actually thinking in French! She also became accustomed to heavy lunches and light dinners. Her travel was exciting; she climbed in the Alps and took a boat ride across the Rhine River.

Lisa sums up her unusual summer: "My experience in Switzerland was magnificent. The exposure to a foreign culture has been rewarding in such a way that I have re-evaluated things about the United States and whetted my appetite for more travel."

The faces of the ten ABC students at WHS pop up in all sorts of activities, from sports to clubs to drama. The "A Better Chance" program has firmly established itself in Winchester in this, its eighth year. The Class of '79 includes two of the ten students living at the ABC House, Pablo Rodriquez and Al Cláss.

Pablo grew up in Spanish Harlem, and came to Winchester for its academic benefits (which many of us may not appreciate!). He has played on the basketball and wrestling teams, and is a Spanish Club member. He also belongs to the Congregational Forum. In addition, Pablo is serving on a racial awareness committee in Winchester.

Al, better known as Tito, came to Winches-year the option not to return to WHS. ter from Jersey City, N.J. He is a gymnast as well as a drummer, as the Gymnastics team and Los Compañeros discoverd. He is also a member of the Spanish and Science Clubs. He too, came to Winchester for its academics, and hopes to attend a military academy next year.

The ABC students make a great contribution to the diversity of the high school. Being a minority group member in Winchester is not easy, but the two seniors have seen improvement in the situation just during their three years here. Regarding Winchester's full acceptance of minorities some day, Pablo says, with his big smile, "There is hope." The seniors do feel accepted at the high school, and are very optimistic about the ABC program, as evidenced by their declining each year the option not to return to WHS.

Mary Donlon and Michael Graffeo survived their first date.

Memories of ...

... "First Dates." First dates can generally be characterized by an abundance of discomfort, staring into space, and ridiculous questions such as "How many cats, fish, or turtles do you have?" You knock yourself senseless in an attempt to get a date with the gorgeous blond who sits four seats, three rows, diagonally in back of you to the right in math class. Finally, after your months of doing everything short of serenading him at midnight with a full orchestra, he asks you out and reality sets in.

What do you wear? Has your older sister gone off to college with your blow-drier? Do you or don't you mention his ex-girl-friend, the 102-pound model for Halston? In any case, he finally arrives, late of course (it's not COOL to be on time!), with a trapped expression on his face as your parents try tactfully to discover where he's taking you, what time you'll be home, how many car accidents he's had.

If you wind up at the movies, the two of you stare mutely at a movie screen, sit on sticky seats, and listen to the junior high kids exchange catcalls from opposite ends of the theatre. If you go to a party, the two of you suddenly become the main attraction, as you find yourself explaining to each and every person how he asked you out over a spaghettisplattered lunch table. However, the most nerve-wracking part of a "First Date" is waiting for him to call about . . . the "Second Date"!

Hard night last night?

Newcomer's Guide to WHS

Are you SERIOUS! — Typical girl reaction to almost every situation.

Culture corner - Designated "study" area (not necessarily of books).

Space cadet – May be found "studying" in Culture Corner.

Later . . . much — Case is closed, finished, over. In other words, just forget it.

EXcellent! - EXcellent!

Good morning, it's Friday again ... – The nasal tone gives it away, it's fourth period!

Bang a u'ie - Don't do this on a one-way street!

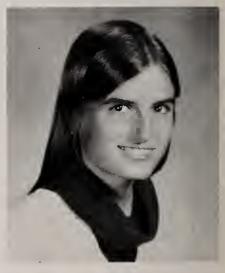

Catch ya later – Alias good-bye.

Blow it off — Better never than late.

Go for it! — You only live once, so . . .

Diversity at WHS

Two new seniors appeared in Sachem soccer uniforms this fall, but they had not just moved across town. WHS was extremely lucky to host two exchange students, Jan Franck (known as Franck) from Denmark and Sergio Guillen from Mexico.

The cultural exchange is interesting to everyone who has come into contact with the exchangers. Both students have improved in their speaking and understanding of English (their accents will soon be non-existent), and in return Sergio has given lectures to Spanish classes. Franck loves skiing, while Sergio had his first exposure to snow and winter temperatures.

When asked what his biggest adjustment to the school has been, Franck replied the size — Winchester is a much larger school than the one in Denmark. For Sergio, the shock of getting up for morning classes has been an eye-opener! In Mexico, the school day begins at 2 p.m. and goes until 8. Another big difference for both of them was moving from class to class each period. In their countries, while the teachers move about. they stay in one classroom,

These students have enjoyed living in the U.S., and both say that they would like to return in the future. Their reactions to Winchester vary. Franck thinks the town is nice, but less exciting than he had anticipated, whereas Sergio really likes the small town atmosphere. People here are friendly, they've found, and they enthusiastically complimented their host families.

It has been great to have Sergio and Franck at WHS, and we wish them the best of luck in the future.

In Memoriam: KEVIN CHARLES WALSH

July fifth nineteen sixty-one to october eighteenth nineteen seventy-six

Kevin's warmth and friendliness infected all who knew him, and compounded the tradedy of his sudden death in the fatal car accident of October 18, 1976.

And this your life,
Exempt from public haunt,
Finds speech in stars,
Words in rolling winds,
Sermons in the sun,
And good in everything.

Whether in official organizations, or informal groups, underclassmen were everywhere; taking S.A.T.'s, supporting the different teams, or congregating in the hallways at school. As the hours of their high school lives flowed by, they found themselves carried along on the tide of new understandings and experiences.

As they worked for their diplomas, each pursued the development of his special talents and interests. Most realized the importance of grades for college and studied accordingly. They learned the necessity of discipline as they sacrificed more pleasurable activities in order to achieve their goals. As they matured, they acquired a new respect for their teachers, surroundings, and one another. They were exposed to many new experiences, such as the independence of being behind the wheel of a car. This was a time not only for learning about algebra and Socrates, but for learning about themselves, and the world around them.

Breaking In The Newcomers.

The first day of school was made a lot less confusing and a lot more relaxing for the incoming class of Sophomores and other newcomers to W.H.S., by a new orientation program designed and conducted by Student Union. A group of Juniors and Seniors pinpointed several aspects of orientation they felt were lacking or confusing when they came to the high school as Sophomores.

During the spring Student Union secured permission from the administration to institute some changes in the orientation program. More time was alotted for tours to be given by upperclassmen, and more time for the Sophomores to talk with the upperclassmen, and to ask questions of them.

A few Student Union members worked over the summer to finalize plans for the first day of school.

A week prior to the opening of classes, several students volunteered their time each day in the guidance office. The students assisted the guidance office staff, and welcomed new students coming to W.H.S. from other high schools.

On the first day of school for Sophomores, over thirty upperclassmen come to school, voluntarily missing their last day of summer vacation. After speeches in the auditorium, the Sophomores proceeded to their homerooms, where they were greeted by teachers, and required to take a standardized test.

After these formalities, the Sophomores, were led on tours by the student guides. With the newly designed tour, the entire Sophomore class was able to see the whole building, without major traffic jams. Once finished with the tours, the Sophomores returned to their homerooms and were briefed on student life, extracurricular activities, and school regulations by the upperclassmen. omore class was able to see the whole building, without major traffic jams. Once finished with the tours, the Sophomores returned to their homerooms and were briefed on student life, extracurricular activities, and school regulations by the upperclassmen.

Overall, the program was hailed as a great success and a vast improvement over the old system. The Sophomores settled into high school life quickly, and had less confusion finding classes than did previous newcomers. They were also far more aware of what opportunities are available to them at the high school.

Student Union is very pleased with the improvements made in this year's program, and plans to perfect it even more for next year.

Engrossed in thought, Lois West adds finishing touches to her Music Theory paper.

Taking a Break From Studies.

It all started when we had a substitute in English. Naturally the group took advantage of the opportunity and escaped downtown for munchies. However, getting back into class the next day was a different story.

"I had a sudden dentist appointment," one said.

"My dog followed me into the school and I had to take him home," replied another.

The excuses ranged from, "The sub said I could leave because I was ahead of the class," to "I got sick in the bathroom and was too embarrassed to come to class or go to the nurse."

Whatever the alibi, cutting class is one of the greatest pleasures and anxieties of high school life. Even though the administration has tried to curb the urge to skip by making cuts cumulative for the whole school year, students take advantage of the two cuts they have before their grade is lowered.

I'm sure everyone will rate his high school days as being fun sooner or later and skipping classes, dodging teachers, and inventing ridiculous alibis are memories most will not forget.

Writing Lab Develops Skills

One of the mandatory courses for graduation from Winchester High is Sophomore Writing Lab. This writing workshop is a one semester English requirement. It was designed to teach the school students writing skills and to prepare them to use these skills after graduation.

Three elements of the English language were incorporated into the course. They are writing, reading and memorizing vocabulary. A reading log and a vocabulary workbook are given to the students at the beginning of the course. These are included as support skills for the instruction of the writing process. Weekly assignments are completed by the students in these two areas. For the reading log, a short story is usually read and an entry is made to accommodate the weekly requirement. Each student is obligated to complete a vocabulary chapter each week, which they are then tested on.

Another aspect of the course is the major essays which must be written. The student is given up to three weeks (depending on the length of the assignment) to write two discovery drafts and a final copy. Among these theses are a persuasion essay, comparison/contrast essay, literary analysis, and a cause and effect essay. Another paper must be completed for the final exam.

The Writing Lab is useful in opening the sophomore's eyes to the language that they speak. They gain an awareness of how a final draft should appear. The students show a significant improvement in their writing skills once they have completed this course. They Writing Lab is a very effective addition to the English Department's curriculum.

Working geometry problems is almost impossible for some, but Brian Donnellan appears to enjoy writing his proofs.

Get The Spirit.

Besides being novices at the high school, the sophomores are faced with the experience of meeting new classmates. However, there are many aspects of being at W.H.S. that require mingling of students.

First of all, there are the classes. It is virtually impossible for a class to be comprised of students from only one junior high. Lunchtime is another popular time for mingling. During the school day, students are given many opportunities to meet each other. Class discussions and lab periods bring new friends. Sports also bring people together. Many former McCall and Lynch students get together by being on the same team. Not only are varsity and J.V. sports uniting our sophomores, but intramurals provide opportunities for students with similar intersts to get together. The high school is one of the most efficient ways to unite people. Sophomores enter the high school without knowing many of the class, but soon learn to know and graduate the best of friends.

Junior Life.

Being a junior at Winchester High School has its pros and cons, depending of how you look at it. First, as soon as one becomes sixteen and a junior, ususlly there is a problem of money. No longer will parents give out generous amounts of dollars, therefore in order to "live" one must work. So, at Sweet Sixteen, most abandon their paper routes and flood the job market trying to find an employer who will offer them anything from waitressing at a nearby hangout to waxing and polishing cars. Nevertheless, although a good amount of money is earned by industrious high schoolers, most of it is spent on weekend activities of one kind or another.

As underclassmen turn into upperclassmen, their weekend fun changes from "biology Saturday nights" to party ones. Along with the escapades, is the thrill of getting a driver's license. By exchanging a mutilated permit for a plastic-coated official license, worrying about where the next ride will come from is obselete, for now a newly-licensed driver can take his parents' wheels and go cruisin'. An excellent Friday or Saturday night includes partying, cruising, and maybe having a Chinese fire drill at a busy intersection. Dangerous but fun!

A less intense weekend night sometimes includes a movie. However, fake I.D.'s aren't good just for parties or discos, they're also great for getting into R-rated movies. Sweating out the obvious question, "Am I going to get carded? is a better memory than being legal.

No matter who is asked about his junior year in high school, most agree that this year is only the beginning of the good times.

A group of juniors reveal mixed emotions toward the PSAT.

Susanne Girard

No Turning Back.

One of the main purposes of high school is to help collegebound students obtain the kind of status they wish to work for. Assisting students is a major factor for the existence of the PSAT.

PSAT means Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Test and it functions as a preview to the required SAT. Juniors merely sign up, pay a minimal fee and bring two #2 pencils to the testing place on a Saturday morning and they can try their luck and skill against a similar version to next year's "big-gie."

Reacting to any test in the same manner, most eleventh graders do not look forward to missing extra sleep just to sample the SAT. However, those who choose to sacrifice, and most do, are rewarded in their senior year with SAT scores approximately one hundred points higher than their PSAT scores.

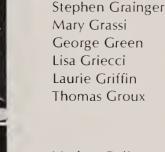

The Guidance Department runs the testing in an organized manner and get the students in and out as soon as possible. Emphasizing accuracy, teachers remind the students of an important concept; one should never guess unless the choice is down to two choices.

Upperclassmen may feel that College Entrance Examinations are totally useless but they do actually help. They may prevent applicants from getting into an ivy-league college, but they also prevent students from being accepted into a college that is much too difficult and have the student quit the institution in vain.

The high school students were delivered an ultimatum in November. They were to be immunized on November 28, 1978 at the high school or December 19, 1978 at the Town Hall or prove they had been immunized. If this was not done, they would be expelled from school beginning January 1, 1979. Their expulsion would be prolonged if they could not provide sufficient evidence of recent immunization by the school or by their own doctor.

The School Committee decided that all students must be immunized against polio, diphtheria, tetanus, and measles. These vaccines have fortunately prevented the outbreak of a serious epidemic in the community, but most of all it has saved many students from the pain of contracting one of them.

On the night of Saturday, January 27, 1979, the Junior Class gathered at the Montvale Plaza for their annual prom night. Class rings were distributed and the prom-goers collected their rings on arrival at the Plaza. Dinner was then served. It began with a mere fruit cup, worked its way up to a roast beef dinner and climaxed with harlequin ice cream.

The rock group, Gravity entertained the underclassmen at this event and those who attended discoed and slow danced the night away. All in all it was a very happy time and we can only hope that forthcoming junior proms can be just as entertaining.

Whistles, guns, splashes, kicks, jumps, the swift toss of a ball, the leap into the air; however it began, the action was great.

Sports were an important part of our time at WHS. Whether as athlete or fans, the students participated. Sachem spirit was strong.

For the athletes, sports meant growing in many important ways. They learned about discipline through practice and more practice, early mornings and late afternoons; it seemed endless. But competition made it all worthwhile. The surge of adrenalin as they got psyched for the games both mentally and physically, spurred them on. They found out about winning and losing and that the important element was doing it right, being fair to themselves and others. They developed strategy and skills. They grew as they strove, sometimes alone, like the runners and gymnasts, to become better. They developed endurance and learned about pain and pleasure. They suffered through cliff-hangers that ended in disappointing losses and they revelled when they won. They discovered how to work together for the good of the team and developed the spirit that makes teams win. But winning was only part of it. Friendships grew and understandings about loyalty and encouragement of others became part of their lives.

The fans were an integral part of the sports scene. Applause made the wins sweeter and comforting voices made the losses easier. They shared the joys and disappointments of the athletes and made the Sachem spirit flow.

What was it all about? It was about winning and losing, striving and doing with concentration and skill. It was about growing, and it was great!

TO COMPETE

Sachems' Soccer;

The team started out as a dark horse candidate for the league crown. Lexington and Wakefield were chosen as the two dominant powers. The Sachems soon proved the prediction to be false.

The '78 squad, with all its members having played together for a number of years, truly put forth a team effort. They came into the season with no big stars or standouts and finished the season tied for second place with Lexington although they had the most goals scored in the league with 84 and only 11 against. It was the best TEAM Coach Bouley has had in seven years compiling an outstanding record of 15-2-1. This record earned the Sachems the 8th seed in the Eastern Mass. tournament.

Expert skill is exhibited by Will Strazzullo as he controls the ball.

"Hi Guys!"

Cheering the W.H.S. teams on through good times and bad, the Sachem cheerleaders made an outstanding contribution to School spirit. Spurred on by this enthusiastic band of 13 girls, the fans let the players know they were rooting for them.

Pride and self discipline on those cold days when fingers and toes were numbed by cold, plus much hard work produced a squad of cheerleaders unsurpassed anywhere in the league.

Much credit must be given to Ms. Stoddard, the team's advisor and personal friend. She could see all sides of every situation and was kind and helpful, always.

The team players contributed much to the overall spirit displayed this year. The football team, especially the seniors, showed great decorating skills with paper. The soccer players qualified for the state competitions and engendered much enthusiasm from everyone.

"Gue's sleepover, Whoppers at Mac's, Breakfast at Bino's, TOGA Time, Aww — That's Awful, Phuddle."

Marshall's men win six straight

The '78 football season started off with endless practice sessions in the blistering heat of late August. Our talented club looked forward to a great season. The Sachems felt "red hot." An early loss to Natick in a non-league game was a setback, but the Sachems "hung tough" and after a tie with Reading, won 6 games straight.

Senior end, Nick Fitzgerald sustained the only key injury of the season. Unable to play, Nick cheered the team on at every game.

With the talent, strength and will to win, exhibited by the team, anything was possible, including a chance for the Middlesex title. That race went down to the wire, when a loss to Burlington ended their hopes for the title.

Wolf, P. Tracey, L. Natsis, K. Jacobson, M. White.

Although the traditional Turkey Day game against Woburn, the league leader, ended in defeat, the Sachems gave their old foes a great fight and kept the fans on their toes until the fourth quarter.

Mr. Marshall, Earl Johnson, Dave Berman, Mike Houghton, and Tom Kline deserve applause for a fine coaching job. Their ability is reflected in the season the Sachems had.

The Sachems got plenty of support from the Juniors. With more than 10 starters returning, next year's team promises another super season. Good luck, Sachems!

With a combined record of 17-9-0, the three cross country teams enjoyed a memorable, if uneven, season under the auspices of coach Joe Cantillon and team captain Andy Wilsack. The Varsity was 4-5, the Junior Varsity was 6-3, and the Girls' team was 6-1.

Wilsack led the team throughout the campaign with brillant races against Reading and Lexington; taking seven firsts en route. Greg Cummings and number two varsity runner Jim Wilber lent invaluable experience to an otherwise young varsity squad.

Seniors Michele deMars, Sara Fotsch, Kathy Cullen and Donna Farrell were the primary reasons for the emergence of Winchester as a power in girls' cross country.

Other salient features of the season were: Michele's Hallow-een Dinner, Sack's car, pre-dawn breakfasts, Rudy's Hill, and the parkway, letters from Jan, Franklin Park, and preparing for a race with the awful nervousness they all love.

Sachem Spirit succeeds swimmers record

The story of the Girls' Swimming and Diving team this year is a new one. The 37 girls who joined found themselves waking up at 4:30 AM to practice during the week. The water in which they practiced ranged in temperature from 53°-97°F. Another problem was with the 37 girls getting ready for school with only 5 showers, 4 hairdryers, and 6 mirrors among them. As a team, through the heterogeneous mix of personalities that made the experience so much more important, the girls developed friendships and memories that will last a lifetime.

The memories include: lost at sea in the steambath ... 53°-97° in ONE week! 85 over the tracks. It's 5 in the morning, do you know where your swimmers are? Dunks, SACHEM POWER! SI-LENT CHEER! This was a special year for the Winchester sports scene. Girls' soccer was added, and what an addition it was! In their first year of play, the girls advanced to the state quarter finals. They were undefeated in the Middlesex League. The long season concluded with a 9-1-2 record.

Due to the excellent coaching skills of Mr. Scanlon and Miss Tanner, the team was full of outstanding spirit and dedication. The team extends their thanks to these fine coaches.

The soccer season was especially successful because of the warm ties of friendship produced among the players. Also, the enthusiasm displayed by the rest of the students in cheering on this new team was remarkable. Girls' soccer is here to stay!

Tracksters excel, record stays behind

The boys' indoor track team finished out the season with a 3-6 record. Individual members of the team did extremely well, but due to injuries and other disappointments the overall outcome was not favorable.

Andy Wilsack achieved an excellent 6-3 record and posted his best time of 4:34 in the mile. Ed Kirkpatrick had the best season in his track career with an 8-1 record. Both went to the league meet, Ed taking second place and Andy taking a third place. They both were also elected to the allstar team. Juniors Lucas Natsis and Ken Kirk terrified the league with their awesome times in the hurdles and 600, respectively. Seniors Phil Mulvaney, John Shattuck and Paul Mafera filled the gaps always giving their best in any event they were in.

The first official girls' winter track team ended the season with a record of 4 1st's and 1 2nd in 5 quad - or tri-meets. Their success is accredited to the coaching staff and the team's commitment. Individuals who should be acknowledged are: Jane Terry for taking second place in the 45 at the Harvard Coaches Invitational, Cathy Driscoll for a fantastic first season, being undefeated in the 300, Andrea deMars, a super star sophomore who proved herself in the 600, and Barbara Meyers, who came back after an injury to become the best high jumper on the team reaching 4'11". Special credit should be given to captain Sarah Fotsch, who has out performed all opposing competiton competition for the past 3 years. WHS track will miss her.

Goodbye to the seniors and good luck to next year's team.

Boys' Basketball "Laid Up"

Many returning seniors and juniors were the source of hope for the 1978-79 basketball season. The majority of the team had played together before, and this was hopefully to be an advantage. Unfortunately, the season started out with a 55-47 loss to Medford. Although this did not mean doom, it was not a good omen. The Sachems went on to lose 12 games straight until they finally picked up a 46-44 win over Melrose. This was the only win of the season. Understandably, by the end of the season the team was disheartened, as were their faithful fans. Although this season was not successful, there are hopes for next year's team. Good Luck

Steve Hurder lines up for the shot with some defense resistence.

As he goes up for the shot, John Brosnan is faced with a tough opposition.

First row: R. Pearl, co-captains S. Hurder, G. Tedesco, M. Berkley. Second row: Coach Wheeler, J. Brosnan, D. Jordan, G. Floyd, M. Aylward, J. Kohr, J. McGoldrick.

Going up for the rebound, along with a Woburn player, is Mark Aylward Control is necessary when it's 2 on one.

Top: First Row: C. Holahan, K. Gately, L. Pierce, C. Day. Second Row: T. Aylward, J. Maloney, G. Oram, B. Hacobs, C. Driscoll, K. Heffernan, L. Lavey. Middle: Congratulating each other on a job well done.

All the necessities for a good game.

Linda Pierce going for two of her over 237 points in the season.

The rebound is coming straight to Barbara Jacobs.

The 1978-79 Basketball team was one of Winchester's best. They received much strong support from their many loyal fans. The girls worked well together and have a record to prove it.

Linda Pierce was definitely the most outstanding player on the team. Linda broke the school record for high scoring for a single season and also for a varsity career. In her sophomore year she scored a total of 180 points and in her junior year she chalked up 181. Her best effort went to her senior year. This season she scored over 237 points. Linda has a very good chance at the MVP for the middlesex league and also for the league high scorer. She has been on the Middlesex All-Star Team for 3 consecutive years.

Other strongholds included Kelly Gately, Barbara Jacobs, Christine Driscoll, and Cathy Day, who started along with Linda. Sturdy backup came from Lori Redman and Gail Oram. With only 3 seniors leaving, next year's team will be left with many fine people. The team thanks Coach Hollis and captains Linda and Kelly. Good Luck to next year's team.

This year's gymnastics team had a dissappointing season. Their record of 1-9 could have been a lot better if it weren't for some unfortunately close meets. Even though their record doesn't show it, they feel their team accomplished a great deal. Thanks to the turn out of a large number of sophomores, this was a building year. The returning members next year are looking forward to a winning season. They will always remember Saturday morning practices and most of all, Giants! They would like to give special thanks to Coach Hood and Mr. Donahue for all their help throughout the year. Good luck to next year's team.

The Hockey team made up for the 2-16 record with effort and determination. With injuries to many key players such as Mike Hill, Buddy Pronski, Bobby Coppins and Mike Jackson, the Sachems had a rough time with many teams.

This season saw the first Sachem win in 22 games. Reading was downed 4-2. Two weeks later arch-rival Woburn was knocked off with a 6-4 score.

The team was led by returning lettermen Bubba Sanford, Jack Collins, Peter Mahoney, Bobby Coppins, Mike Hill, Ron DiVincenzo and Buddy Pronski. The main goal-tending chores were handled by Bobby Surabian. Two sophomores, John Ferullo at defense and Ian Donaghey at forward, also played important roles. Good Luck to next years team.

The flow of school spirit was high this year as evidenced by the club activities. The feeling of "belonging" that holds a class and a school together was everywhere. Some students drifted with the crowds into clubs that promised parties and fun. Others joined clubs where they could develop their own special interests. Whatever the choice, the possibility for fullfillment existed in all the clubs.

Most students realized the importance of being involved, whether in developing a new friendship or a new skill. The clubs were marked by special people — people who cared — about the activity, about developing talents and most of all, about each other.

TO PERFORM

During the course of a meeting expressions range from boredom, to engrossment, to confusion, to objection.

A Student Union meeting gives everyone a chance to say or do his part.

In complete control of the meeting. Donna Farrell, gavel in hand, and Joe Piantedosi listen to a speaker from the floor.

Student Union Commands Respect

Questions and points of information from the floor are quite frequent.

RSAC members: John DeMars and Becky Price. The RSAC forms a liason with the Union and the State Dept. of Education.

The 1978-79 Student Union was an effective, strong, and respected organization. The Union expanded its function and interests to include not only the social actions of the school, but the curricular, extracurricular, and community-wide aspects of the high school. The Student Union earned a respect far above that usually accorded a student government. By its example of hard work, dedication and school spirit, and its ability to set and achieve goals in an enthusiastic, professional manner, the Union vastly improved student credi-

Everyone Pulls for the Pool

Someday, the dream of having a pool at W.H.S. may become a reality, thanks to the dedicated efforts of parents, faculty, students, and other interested citizens. In 1978, the Parent-Faculty Association of the high school, led by President Mrs. James Barger, decided that the only way the high school was ever going to get a pool, was if "someone" began raising funds for the purpose. Realizing the astronomical costs they face, the PFA nevertheless began the "Pool for the School" drive.

To demonstrate the seriousness of the drive, the PFA sponsored a Carnival in September, as its first fund-raising activity. All involved were determined to make the Carnival a success, despite the innumberable difficulties, technicalities, and legalities of running such an event. Enlisting the support of many indivudals in the town, as well as several groups in the high school, including the Student Union and the Girls' Swim team, the PFA did indeed succeed, raising over $6500 profit in a 12 hour period.

Student Union also began a fund for the pool, and planned to contribute as much as possible by the end of the year, to demonstrate the students' desire to make a pool a real and vital part of the high school. Whatever direction the "Pool for the School" Committee may lead the drive for a pool in, the rewarding aspect of the drive is its success in unifying the high school, parents, and members of the community, in a group effort. The accomplishment of eventually having the pool will be second only to the spirit of community and enthusiasm generated by the drive itself. All of those involved should be proud to have partaken in such a monumental project. And to the Parent-Faculty Association of 1978-79, the town and the students of WHS are forever indebted.

National Honor Society

The Light of Knowledge

A moment of achievement.

This year 86 students were members of the N.H.S.. Their membership was based on their possession of the four qualities held high in the esteem of the society. These qualities are: scholarship, service, leadership, and character. The club's main purpose is to provide services to the school and community. The traditional induction ceremony was a success, with each member receiving a pin and certificate. The evening was marked by the sentimental candlelight ceremony, the spreading of the light of knowledge from one member to another.

N.H.S. members: J. Bishop, W. Strazzullo, E. Kirkpatrick, W. Muggia, A. Barrow, D. Bosco, C. Barger, D. Farrell, S. Campo, C. Holahan, J. Constantine, D. Houlihan, C. Thomas, L. Patterson, D. ## Wild Hot Super Rock

Constantly being pulled in twenty different directions is not an easy thing to handle. But for eight years David Frary has held WHSR together. From fixing all the audio-visual equipment in the town, to making sure that the video-tapes get shown on time, Mr. Frary does it all. Mr. Frary also spends hours upon hours reading all the forms, documents, rules and regulations put out by the F.C.C. He then puts it into plain English and explains it to all the station members. His favorite pastime is waiting for one of the disc jockeys to come running into his office screaming that something doesn't work. Mr. Frary serenely walks into the studio with a smile and says "it would help if you turned the microphone on." And so it goes at WHSR-FM, the best in student radio."

The Friday night Trivia show is very popular. John Haber and Charlie Perenick put a lot of work into it.

Much concentration is needed in coordinating a show. Jim Mueller is best known for his weather report.

For the members, the Band has meant good times and great memories. It had a social atmosphere in which new relationships were formed. They were a rowdy bunch of people who learned to work together and got results - even when the odds were against them. With Ms. Miller in the lead, the "Gunball Rally" raced off to breakfast; only to wait for the less than desirable food. Next came the early practices with hard work and "You look like a wet piece of salami!" The bus rides brought forth their spirit, and chants of "Role me over" and "Hey, la-de-la-de-lade." The games consisted of band-wars, silent cheers, trafficjams, Miller's dance company and "Boy did we Blow Them Off the Field!" After game enjoyment included band parties, A.E., and on occasion, Ralph and Earl; but they still survived.

Of course the Jazz Band and Concert Band had their share of performances that included Exchange concerts, Jazz Band festivals with WHS Jazz on tour, and not forgetting the Brass vs. Woodwinds and Percussion softball game. For their finale they had a banquet, supported by the Sachem buttons. It was a good year and they hope those left behind will keep up the traditions.

The spirit and talent of this year's WHS band caught the attention of the school. At football games, the spèctators found themselves clapping along to "Man of La Mancha" or "Classical Gas" in mild shock. Proud grins hidden behind sheet music glowed with a secret knowledge; Ms. Miller, the new band director has brought something extra to the band. She is proud and thrilled about working with the high school band, just as the band is overwhelmingly happy to have her. Even if the band itself was tops in the states with color guard and batontwirlers, it wouldn't be the same without Ms. Miller's pizzazz. Her ferociously enthusiastic lunging stance and beating fist is something football fans look forward to at every game. The band is something to be proud of, and so is its fine, funloving director, Ms. Miller.

Mr. Woodworth conducts the orchestra with expertise.

On Their Way to the BSO

Jim Wells has made his mark in orchestra. Jim and his viola are synonymous with beautiful music.

The orchestra is composed of 30 devoted music students, who enter school every morning and proceed directly to their instruments. The class provides a nice, relaxing start to the normal school day. Mr. Woodworth's vitality is transmitted to the students, whether they are playing Stravinsky's "Firebird Suite" or "Bulger's Holiday". The orchestra performed at seasonal concerts and also partook in the yearly exchange concert. The superb music in no way reflects the lack of bassoons and cellos. The orchestra makes themost of what it does have, accentuating the best.

With a Song in our Hearts

Chorus has its funny moments, especially when a new piece of music is passed out.

Strains of Ma, Me, Mi, Mo, Mu, echo from the chorus room. The chorus room you ask, where is the chorus room? The concert choir, the existence of which is little known is a group of 34 students, which performs at seasonal concerts throughout the year. Chorus is a 5 period per week course worth 5 credits. Contrary to popular opinion - chorus is not an easy 5 credits. True there is no homework, but every member is expected to learn the music, to attend all concerts, and to be prepared to give a solo if called upon. (This measure is taken only if there is evidence of inattention.) The purpose of the class is not to train beautiful voices, but to make every individual more aware of his potential, even if it is simply reaching that previously unattainable note.

Mr. Cowgill's excellent direction results in polished concerts.

Choir members: C. Yamamoto, L. Piazza, A. Thomas, J. Adamkowski, J. Wells, L. Cowan, K. Driscoll, P. Intravaia, A. Pothier, Mr. Cowgill, G. Fligg, C. White, M. Fairbanks, T. Swymer, C. Currier, M. ### The Things We Took With Us

In the beginning there was Hester Keller; the stage was waste and void. Darkness covered the stage and Mrs. K. said, "Let there be light" and Tom Lowell turned on the warmers. And Mrs. K. saw that it was good but not very entertaining, so she said "Let there be auditions and a play." and the play was named "You Can't Take it With You." She saw auditions on the first day and the second and the third and the fourth and the fifth and took the weekend to make up her mind. On Monday morning a large group of people gathered at the Curtain and Cue bulletin board to read the names of the cast. Mrs. K. took her copy of the cast list and said: "It is good." Then, "Let the cast bring forth a good show; all the fruits of good rehearsals." And so it was. (The actors bore fruits but later didn't bore the audience.) There was evening and morning and afternoon and rehearsal. There were lines and blocking, costumes, makeup and set. Mrs. Keller planted a garden in Winchester HS, and there she put actors and actresses to be formed. She, like a man going abroad had called her Curtain & Cuers, and to some she gave big roles, and to others smaller but important roles, and to still others cameos, each according to his or her ability. The ones with the big roles took their parts to rehearsal and took directions well. The others did well too, and none buried their roles in the earth. All made more of their roles, and took with them many happy memories. "I love them deeply. Some people could break away but I couldn' ... couldn't ... I know they do rather strange things but they're gay and they're fun and I don't know . . . there's a kind of nobility about them."

A happy ending!

Curtain and Cue experienced one of its most rewarding and successful years. The fall play saw the return of many upperclassmen, but the involvement of the sophomores was especially good. As a result an integrated feeling developed among cast and crew, and among the different classes. The Board worked effectively together and established a new feeling of cooperation and friendship between them and the competition play, which up until this year had been a separate group. The loving devotion of advisor Hester Keller will never be forgotten. May Curtain and Cue continue in the true tradition of the arts.

Numerous field trips, too, involved German students and remembrances of these include the Schuhplatter, McDonald's side trips, getting lost, and of course, German plays among other things. The highlight of the year was the arrival of twenty-three students from Bremen, Germany as part of an exchange program. The group of club members who are going to journey to Bremen in July anxiously await their adventures.

Una Famiglia Contenta

In keeping with the Italian tradition, the club remains small. The members become close, much like a large family. Not only does the club have parties and social events for its members, but the club also does work for charity. The highlight of the year however is "The Festival" which is held at the high school in the spring. With all the food, music, and dance, the event can only be described as a night in Italy. ### Meeting deadlines ...

It all began with decisions, decisions, decisions. Including underclassmen, cutting down on superlatives, adding more features; all needed change. The senior assembly was an unforgettable hassle, but the staff was able to compromise.

The staff caught on quickly, becoming fluent in yearbook jargon – picas, bleeds, proofs, and cropping. On the eve of a deadline, panic struck without fail. They suddenly found they didn't need sleep and homework was forgotten. Making the number of pages needed for the deadline became critical.

The Aberjona staff really pulled together. Writing copy, doing layouts, typing, typing, typing, became part of their lives. They became adept at grinding out captions at dawn.

The Aberjona meant a year of excitement, pressure, disappointments and successes. It meant new friendships, loyalties and understandings. It meant working with wonderful people. It was worth it!

Stephanie Schwartzman summed it up in the following words:
Assembly to protest
It's a tradition
Superlatives to mugs
Who makes decisions?
Layouts, deadlines to meet
Next meeting who'll cook?
What does all of this mean?

The Science Club, being one of the newest clubs, is trying to distinguish itself among the older and more established clubs at the high school. With the assistance of its advisors, Clifton Wheeler and Larry Smith, they have visited Auco industries to see the various functions and operations of lasers. The series of lectures at the Museum of Science was well attended. Through a group effort the members try to discover if a scientific career is suitable to their personalities. The up and coming science club is certainly a welcome addition to the high school.

From La Raspa to Dominique

The French singing group, Les Troubadors, and the Spanish instrumental group, Los Companeros, under the direction of Mrs. Eleanor Thistlethwaite, have participated in various activities. They have performed at the Hynes Auditorium, Florence Crittenton, and other community organizations. The two groups present the musical atmospheres of the various countries they represent, varying from French Christmas carols to rhythmic Latin American tunes. The participants are enthusiastic; this is proven by the number of students playing in both groups.

Roxbury Tutors: E. Donovan, J. Goodman, P. Russel, L. Jarvis, A. Bruno, M. Bishop, J. Gittleman, T. Johnson, C. MacKay, O. Smith, missing — L. Cowan

Whether playing a game, doing a math problem or just sharing good times, the tutors are giving part of themselves to help others.

For a certain group of WHS students there is a Monday afternoon trek into Boston's Roxbury section for one-to-one tutoring with young school children in the basement of St. Cyprian's Episcopal Church. Week after week, for a full school year, these 11 young people teach reading, math and social studies to children from ages 6 to 10, who come from Roxbury, Mattapan and Dorchester. The beautiful things about the project is not just the learning that gets done, but the way the high school students reach out to the youngsters and the response which they elicit. Sometimes there are trips to a zoo or just a few hours on a Saturday walking and window shopping. There is a very real attachment between tutor and pupil. These eleven students lives have touched and been touched by a group of kids who spend a Monday afternoon in a church basement learning, reaching and growing together.

Weekends Were

Filling up for the evening.

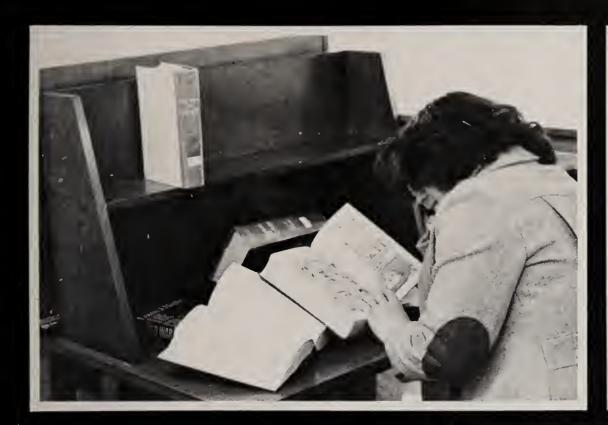

The Friday afternoon 2:23 bell of release. To some it was a fore-warning of long grueling hours of homework, to others it was a signal for part time jobs to earn extra money; yet to most it was a long awaited sigh of relief. Weekends were a time to cast away from a rigorous routine and indulge in life. Everyone will eventually forget boring nights of vainly searching for something to do, and remember the big parties, trips into Boston, and carefree nights partying with friends. Who can forget tip-toeing home at 2 AM after celebrating the end of S.A.T.'s, midyears or the completion of a college application? But of all the things that made weekends, it's our friends that made them special.

Schussing auf Deutsch

W.H.S.'s incomparable Mrs. Austin has gone beyond everyone's expectation yet again. She has now done the impossible — made skiing an official school field trip! The class of German students was treated to a day of skiing at the Blues Hills resort in Canton, Mass.

At this point many, most, or all of you are asking yourselves what relationship could possibly exist between German and skiing. Mrs. Austin once again came to the rescue and pulled from her bag of resources a solution to this problem. The solution was not only adequate but fun for all involved.

The ski instruction at Blue Hills were all from Austria; consequently, they spoke German. This fact led Mrs. Austin to make arrangements for a sojourn where only German would be spoken to the students on furlough. Thus, it was decided that in the morning there would be an hour and a half long mandatory lesson for all, including the "skisharks," spoken and explained completely in German. The schedule of the day was such that there was over an hour of free skiing following the "duty lesson."

The bus arrived back at the high school just in time for the wind blown, red-cheeked group of German students to snicker at the miserable lot of unfortunates who had to scrape through seven periods of lectures note-taking, and tests. Despite the below zero weather, however, it was unanimously agreed that the ski trip was a total and uncompromised success!

How do you say, "Oh my!" in German wonders Ann Louise Casey.

Good organization makes skiing more enjoyable for Jan Franck

This trip is obviously enjoyable for Carolyn Barger.

After a day's instruction in German, Beth Kingsbury and Anne Bird are still smiling.

It's not just for bookworms.

Almost every student spent part of his day in the library. Rookies soon discovered that it was a great place to escape the monotony of study hall, to cram for a test during lunch, or just to catch up on a little gossip.

Ms. Atkins, head librarian was always willing to help out with those "good ole term papers."

She assisted students in finding research materials and making suggestions for other sources.

Humanities' students could be found there before an art test scanning the pictures of Rembrandt, Reuben, and Van Gough hung on the wall. English teachers took opportunity to reserve books for their students. The xerox machine rescued many from closing time.

The library, with all its resources received a steady flow of students from 7:45 to 3:00. Whatever one's reason for being there, a day never seemed to go by without finding one's self between its four walls.

Senior girls take advantage of a free fourth period to chat.

Ms. Atkins gives some suggestions for a paper.

"All work and no play makes Jack a dull boy," as W.H.S. students knew. Although there were classes to attend, students still found time to goof off, whether it be in band practice, the court yard, or heaven knows where!

During free periods, groups congregated in the courtyard, the library, and the open areas. During the mad rush between classes, friends were able to shout greetings to one another. Lunch time provided an opportunity for everyone to get together and relax. After school there was a mass movement to the parking lot. Students hurried to jobs, restaurants, and homes.

During the winter months, everyone dreamed of weekends at the beach and carefree days. When the weather warmed up, the crowd moved outside to chat, to play, frisbee, and just goof around.

I love making prank phone calls!

Students consider career choices.

Career day at W.H.S. is fast becoming an annual tradition. This year on February 13 and 14, twelve guest speakers from different career backgrounds came to speak to students about their careers and the importance of a foreign language in a career.

Most of the speakers were from Winchester and had students at the high school which lent a much more relaxing atmosphere. It was often heard thru-out the Language open area; "That's my best friend's father," or "I didn't know his mother was going to speak." The guests represented a variety of subjects; from a diplomat in the foreign service, to a writer; an archeologist and an architect to a social worker.

Economics, international business and law were some topics. On the whole Career Day was very successful, although with the frantic dashing around of carnation day, it did get a bit hectic. It was very interesting and as a follow-up of the Harrington-O'Shea testing program in the fall it proved very useful to students seriously beginning to think about a career.

Top: Mr. Alan Schoenegge enlightens students on architecture. Bottom: A sigh of relief is heaved after the last lecture of the day by Miss Holden, Ms. Tiffany, Mr. Stryker, and Ms. Schell.

A rose is a rose is a carnation.

A pleasantly surprised Nancy Hicks is delivered flowers by Joe Piantedosi.

The calendar pages flipped by bringing the excitement of February 14th to warm the freezing winter days. It was an opportunity to break the routine of studies to study the effects of Valentine's Day on the subject of love.

Everyone was caught up in the Valentine's spirit as carnations were delivered at the end of fourth and seventh periods. The red, pink, and white flowers symbolized love, friendship, or "I want to get to know you." They were an easy way to break the ice for many potential couples, and provided an opportunity for those already established to express their feelings. The hours were full of excitement and anticipation. Students swarmed into the library in order to buy their carnations. The red flowers were sold out in the early morning. By the end of the day, the hallways were full of smiling faces and long-stemmed carnations. Cupid's arrows flew as Senior girls schemed and dreamed of ways to ask their current crush to the fast approaching semi-formal. Although the day came to a close, many friendships had just begun.

Attention: Careful attention is given by Kathy Davidson as she follows the score.

face in the crowd.

Happiness: Are their smiles for us or for themselves?

Walking down the hallways one could spot emotions that were part of everyone's life. Panic struck when a teacher gave a surprise quiz. A tired look revealed a sleepless night. A slight grin while daydreaming was a true sign of thoughts of the fantastic weekend. A confident look meant the test the period before was a breeze. A glowing smile showed the happiness of a new love. Friendly smiles were just about everywhere. A slight frown meant a test was difficult. A wrinkled nose meant a double lecture in Physics.

Although the faces change from year to year the emotions they expressed will always be able to be spotted as new sophomores reveal frustration with a forgotten combination or flash a jubliant smile when a test was aced.

Determination: Nancy Kawa struggles for one more sit-up.

Flowing through time

Time Will Be:

The year's events, the people we loved, or didn't love, the things we did or didn't do, and our own decision making combined to shape our special year and make it an integral part of our lives.

At various moments in the future some scene, or song, or line of poetry, or just a certain word will trigger memories of our high school years. A once friendly face will smile again in our minds and '78-'79 was a year of growth. our hearts will be warmed by thoughts of the days we spent at W.H.S.

> As the school year draws to a close, we will each choose our own path to follow. Those paths will be filled with joys and disappointments, successes and failures. Some of us will perhaps pioneer strange new worlds of the mind or of the universe. Others will follow more mundane paths.

But we will all seek to know ourselves and our world better. For we have learned that knowledge is beautiful and worth seeking, and that friendship and open hearts are worth having.

We will all grow older; change will come to us and to our world, but there will always be time for fond memories of the years we spent at W.H.S.

Probing various career possibilities is sometimes fun as seen by the faces of Kathy Addie and Miss Tricket

For future use in Germany, Lindy Craig listens to the correct pronunciation of German.

Among the other activities WHS students participated in for the benefit of the Pool for the School Fund was the Marathon Dance. Originally designed to last 24 hours, plans had to be slightly revised when three days before the event it was discovered that 24 hour Marathon Dances are illegal - at least they are in Winchester. So, 14 hours were taken away and we held a "unique" 10 hour mini-marathon. 16 students boogied, discoed, and "wormed" away the hours, raising over $700 for the Pool Fund. Among the dancers, spirits were high and the energy was contagious. They probably could have danced all night.

Bravo for this year's Exchange Concert! Winchester students and Meadow High students combined talents to present to each high school a variety of musical compositions. Imagine the difficulties in coordinating two separate ensembles into one harmonious concert. Although there were inevitable problems, many new friendships and lasting memories were formed. Despite long and arduous practices, everyone managed to find free time. Remember: stranded on Liberty Island, scenic Chinatown, the unexpected "fire alarm". And the beat goes on . . .

Senior Semi-Formal

The Chateau de Ville rocked with life as Winchester High couples spun across the dance floor. Though the arrangements for the dance were marked with uncertainty, the event developed into a memorable evening. After enjoying a dinner at a favorite restaurant, the couples joined their classmates in Saugus to continue their merriment. At the end of the semi, the crowd dispersed to more local parties to continue their celebration in the more intimate atmosphere of friends' homes. The event will long be remembered as an exciting and enjoyable night.

Our Foreign Friends Enjoy Winchester.

From the moment the bus arrived at W.H.S., filled with 27 smiling yet nervous German strangers, until it drove away with a group of crying German friends, the three and a half weeks were fantastic. There was continual laughter, tears, running, yelling, and translating. Everyone got along perfectly, (almost), and many close friendships were formed. The trips to Quincy Market, Rockport, Boston, museums, and Sturbridge Village were exciting, fun, and well organized. The success of the program was all due to Ms. Austin's determination to make everything work even when everything seemed to be going wrong, and to keep on laughing. However, she wouldn't have been able to pull it off without Ms. Schoenegge's help and guidance. To both of these wonderful women Danke schön! Many students also spent an enjoyable summer in Germany.

GIRLS WIN STATES

"The Magnificent Mettes," as they were known, swept to a perfect 17-0 record this season capturing the State Crown in the Mass. State championships. Using that special Sachem combination of talent, team spirit and determination, the Mettes decisively defeated Newton South (4-1) in the finals of the State Tournament to become the first girls' sport team in the history of W.H.S. to win a state championship. This year's championship varsity team, under the coaching of Marjorie Harvey, was comprised of young talent, as sophomores held four out of the first seven Varsity positions. ## Boys' Tennis: 7-4

The boys' tennis team under the competent leadership of freshman coach Chris Scanlon finished a strong third place in the Middlesex league by virtue of sporting a formidable 7-4 record. Qualifying for the EMASS tournament, the Sachems were victims of an unlucky draw as they were pitted against the eventual state champion, Framingham North. Despite this early defeat, the season can be called a success and the boys can be commended for representing WHS well in league competition. This year's team was a well-balanced mixture of Juniors, Sophomores and Seniors, first, second and third singles being played by Jim Willing, Rob Horne and Glen Herlihy, respectively. The year was an enjoyable one for the boys, who hope next year to attain another coveted Middlesex League Crown.

The 1979 Baseball team looked as though it would win its share of games this season by its impressive pre-season, but as game NO. 1 showed, the Sachems were in for some heartbreakers. Coach Chase's club dominated the first game up until the last inning with two outs, when Reading chipped in a few hits and robbed the Sachems of an easy win. This proved to be the story of the whole season as the starting nine lost games by 1 or 2 runs. It seems luck was not with them. Although the 2-16 record shows the Sachems did not have a good year, there was dedication and no one ever gave up until the last out. Good luck to next year's Baseball team!

Softball: Girls Bat 7-11 Record

The 1979 Softball team ended a relatively good season with a 7-11 record. They looked promising at the beginning, but experienced "hot" and "cold" periods throughout the season. The highlight was beating Winchester's archrival, Woburn, at which Kathleen Driscoll pitched a really great game. Other exciting events during the season included a comeback against Lexington and a 28-15 win over Melrose. Although the team had its share of losses, the girls enjoyed the season thoroughly. Kelly Gately was named to the All-Star team, while Mary-Claire McCarthy, Kathleen Driscoll and Christine Driscoll received honorable mention.

The girls' spring track team had a highly successful season. The final record was 5-3-1 in a very competitive league. The team lost two very close meets to Lexington and Burlington and tied with Reading. The success is due to the emergence of many new sophomores such as Lauren Fryklund in the mile, Mary Boland in the hurdles, and Andrea deMars in the 880. Juniors Barbara Myers, Sally Weylman, and next years captains Kathy Welch and Judy McPhee also performed well. Seniors Jane Terry, Lindsay James, Terry Barlow, Lynn Foden, and Linda Pierce had a successful season. This years tri-captains Michele deMars, Sara Fotsch, and Anne Bird provided the necessary leadership for a season full of spirit and triumph.

The boys' spring track team had a rough season, finishing with an overall record of 4-5. Andy Wilsack and Ed Kirkpatrick dominated the Middlesex League in the mile and 880 respectively while John McPhee and Scott Farrar took care of the sprinting events. Juniors who played key roles in this years season are Loukas Natsis, Brad Cowen, Steve Wolfe, Kenny Kirk, Rich Montouri, and Donny Mac Millan. The high point of this years season was the 4×110 team comprised of Phil Mulvaney, Scott Farrar, Tom Wilsack, and John McPhee. In the field events, Dave O'Neil and John Shattuck maintained the Sachems control.

Students and faculty gathered on the evening of May 16, 1979 to carry out the annual Awards Reception at which senior and junior students were acknowledged for excellence in scholarship and school or community service. The recipient of each award remained a mystery until his or her name was called and he or she proudly mounted upon the stage, smiling with a sense of accomplishment. In the cafeteria after the ceremonies, everyone was given the opportunity to exchange congratulations as they sampled the refreshments provided by the Home-Ec department. School spirit was strong as students rejoiced in their own achievements as well as those of their fellow students.

Class Cookout: A Picnic to Relish.

The Class Cookout was a first and a last. A first because this was the first time a cookout was held for class night, and a last because this was the final time the class of '79 would be together before graduation. Everyone participated eagerly – gobbling down hamburgers, signing yearbooks, and reminiscing. Many could be heard murmuring: "Remember when ... "Others, less sentimental, took to the ball field. As dusk came on, the Class of '79 slowly dispersed. They would meet as the senior class of WHS only one more time, at graduation.

The Senior Prom: A Night To Remember ...

Glittering chandeliers ... redcarpeted staircases ... dancing in a beautiful ballroom until midnight ... these are a few of the romantic images created by the Senior Prom of 1979.

The high school years of the Class of '79 were quickly drawing to a close. Students concentrated on enjoying their last days of high school because they would never be together again. Playing a significant role in their celebration was their senior prom, held on Thursday, May 31. Adorned in long gowns and tuxedoes, they ventured to the great ballroom of the Boston Park Plaza, where the band, Sage, provided a wide variety of music for dining and dancing. The jubilant mood continued throughout the evening as the celebrants laughed, talked and danced the night away. All too soon it was midnight and the last dance to "Freebird" ended the Prom. Although the celebration gradually ended in the early morning hours as the post-prom parties provided the final entertainment, the memories the evening created will live on forever.
